Texas Health Science Libraries Consortium

The Texas Health Science Libraries Consortium (THSLC), formed in 1993, is the collaboration of five health science libraries in the Houston-Galveston area. The THSLC leads and encourages partnerships through shared digital library environments and resources to provide access to the world of information for our educational, clinical, and research communities.

A long history of cooperative endeavors among the libraries has provided a strong foundation for exploring new avenues to meet the needs of current users and anticipate the needs of our future populations.
